ACMI

Inclusive ACMI Service for Startups and Established Airlines

What is ACMI? It stands for “aircraft, crew, maintenance, and insurance,” which are the four main components needed to offer chartered flights to clients. You can lease the exclusive use of an aircraft that is fully crewed, maintained, and insured by the owner. You simply pay a predetermined rate and cover the costs of travel, such as fuel, taxes, and airport charges.

When ACMI is included in the leasing agreement, it is often called a “wet lease”. These leases often last 1 to 24 months and are frequently used by airlines to cover peak travel seasons or to deal with annual maintenance checks on their existing fleets.

Many of the leases are offered by major aircraft lessors. These companies own large fleets of aircraft that they lease to airlines of all sizes, including the top airlines in the US and Europe. They account for about 42.6% of all airline leases. However, there are also many independent aircraft owners and smaller airlines that occasionally lease their aircraft when not in use.

Why Should You Consider Using Our ACMI Service?

Leasing an aircraft simplifies the process of increasing your fleet. You avoid spending millions on a new plane and hiring a crew. You also eliminate the need to arrange maintenance and insurance. We make this process even easier by acting as your broker.

You can rely on us to walk you through each step of the process, from finding the right plane to signing the leasing agreement. We have a worldwide network of airline owners, operators, and leasing companies, giving you access to thousands of planes that are ready for leasing.

Here are a few of the reasons why more startups and airlines choose us for ACMI leasing:

- Supplement your existing resources
- Expand into new regions quickly
- Increase your seat capacity during peak travel
- Receive assistance negotiating the lease

ACMI is convenient for all types of airlines from small independent operators to major airline companies. It provides a way to grow your fleet with minimal up-front investment.

Along with saving money, our service simplifies the process of increasing your capacity. Instead of separately searching for the right aircraft, flight crew, maintenance staff, and insurance products, you get everything in one convenient package. ACMI is the fastest way to grow your fleet and meet unexpected demand for airline service.
